QUESTIONNAIRE ON THE IMPACT OF THE CJEU JUDGMENTS IN JOINED CASES OG (C-508/18) AND PI (C-82/19 PPU) AND CASE PF (C-509/18)

COMPILATION OF REPLIES AND CERTIFICATES
Introduction and scope of the update

Following the CJEU’s judgments of 27 May 2019 that relate to the concept of ‘issuing judicial authority’ (Article 6(1) EAW FD), Eurojust launched a Questionnaire on the impact of these judgments and prepared a Compilation of replies which was published as Council doc. 10016/19. At the COPEN Meeting of 19 June 2019, Eurojust was given a mandate to update this Compilation in close coordination with the EJN, the Council Secretariat and the Commission.

Since Eurojust published this document, some relevant developments have taken place: new certificates have become available,¹ new legislation was adopted (NL) and some national judgments were delivered. Also the CJEU delivered another relevant judgment² and other related cases are still pending before the CJEU³.

The scope of this update is limited to inserting the new certificates (including a reference to the new Dutch law) and the relevant national case-law that Eurojust and the EJN have obtained so far through the National Desks and the EJN Contact Points (DE, NL).

This update does not touch upon the replies provided to the questionnaire (with the exception of NL) and does not add any further questions. However, Eurojust and the EJN would like to keep the possibility of any future update open, also in view of future judgments from the CJEU. Any comments and/or suggestions for a future update can be sent to Eurojust (operations@eurojust.europa.eu) and the EJN (ejn@eurojust.europa.eu).

³ Joint Cases C-566/19 PPU and C-626/19 PPU, Case C-625/19 PPU and Case C-627/19 PPU (in relation to these cases, the Opinions of the Advocate General were delivered on 26 November 2019). See also Case C-510/19 (in relation to the term ‘judicial authority’ as referred to in Article 6(2) EAW FD).
Background

On 27 May 2019, the CJEU interpreted in Joined Cases OG (C-508/18) and PI (C-82/19 PPU) (retrievable here) and Case PF (C-509/18, retrievable here) the concept of "an issuing judicial authority" within the meaning of Article 6(1) Framework Decision 2002/584/JHA on the European Arrest Warrant and the surrender procedures between the Member States (EAW FD). The CJEU held that the concept of an “issuing judicial authority”, within the meaning of Article 6(1) EAW FD must be interpreted as:

- including the Prosecutor General of a Member State who, whilst institutionally independent from the judiciary, is responsible for the conduct of criminal prosecutions and whose legal position, in that Member State, affords him a guarantee of independence from the executive in connection with the issuing of a European arrest warrant;
- not including public prosecutors' offices of a Member State which are exposed to the risk of being subject, directly or indirectly, to directions or instructions in a specific case from the executive, such as a Minister for Justice, in connection with the adoption of a decision to issue a European arrest warrant.

When assessing whether Article 6(1) EAW FD includes a public prosecutor of a Member State, the CJEU took into consideration inter alia the following elements:

- Participation in the administration of criminal justice (see paras 29-42 PF; paras 50-63 OG & PI): e.g. be competent, in criminal proceedings, to prosecute a person suspected of having committed a criminal offence so that that person may be brought before a court; and/or be in charge of the organisation and direction of criminal investigations; and/or have power to issue an indictment.
- Objectivity (see para 51 PF; para 73 OG & PI): The prosecutor's legal position safeguards the objectivity of the public prosecutor's role. He/she is required to take into account all incriminatory and exculpatory evidence.
- Independence (see paras 51-52 PF; paras 73-74 OG & PI): The prosecutor's legal position in that Member State affords him/her a guarantee of independence from the executive in connection with the issuing of an EAW. The prosecutor is not exposed to any risk of being subject to external directions or instructions, in particular from the executive, in a specific case.
- Legal remedy (see para 53 PF; paras 75 OG & PI): The prosecutor's decision to issue an EAW (and the proportionality of this decision) may be the subject of court proceedings which meet the full requirements inherent in effective judicial protection.
Questionnaire

These judgments have raised many questions amongst practitioners in relation to the legal position of public prosecutors in the Member States in the context of issuing EAWs for the purpose of prosecution. Already prior to the judgments, the Swedish desk at Eurojust raised the question "Can prosecutors issue an EAW in your country?". The replies to this questionnaire are integrated in the compilation of the present questionnaire (see question 1 below). The publication of the judgments raised some important additional questions.

Against this background and in view of supporting the national authorities in the Member States with the execution of EAWs in the aftermath of the recent judgments, Eurojust prepared a follow-up questionnaire:

(1) [Can prosecutors issue an EAW in your country? Please only reply to this question in case you would like to amend or replace your answer to the Swedish Desk's questionnaire.]

(2) Which is the entity, in your Member State, that ultimately takes the decision to issue an EAW?

(3) Does your national law afford public prosecutors a guarantee of independence from the executive so that they are not exposed to the risk of being subject, directly or indirectly, to directions or instructions in a specific case from the executive, such as a Minister for Justice, in connection with the adoption of a decision to issue an EAW? (Please clarify if there are any legal provisions which give the executive a power to issue instructions to the prosecutor, and, if so, to what extent).

(4) In case your Member State, as issuing authority, is affected by the CJEU's judgments, which legal and/or practical measures has been taken or will be taken in order to prevent and address this issue?

(5) Do you have, in view of the above mentioned judgments, any other additional comments that you would like to share with the other Member States?
Outcome

All Member States (MSs) provided a reply to question 1 (Swedish questionnaire). 26 MSs provided a reply to the follow-up questionnaire (AT, BE, BG, CZ, DE, DK, EE, EL, ES, FI, FR, HR, HU, IE, IT, LT, LU, LV, NL, PL, PT, RO, SE, SI, SK, UK).

The full compilation of all the replies is available in the tables below. If needed, the compilation can be updated in the future.

Prosecutor’s Office Act § 2 (2) states that prosecutors shall be independent in the performance of their duties and act only pursuant to law and according to their conscience. According to Prosecutor's Office Act § 9 (1), the Ministry of Justice shall exercise supervisory control over the prosecutor's office. The supervisory control over the prosecutor's office exercised by the Ministry of Justice does not extend to the activities of the prosecutor's office in planning of surveillance, pre-trial criminal proceedings and representing of public prosecution in court. Articles 87 of the Greek Constitution and 24 of the Law 1756/1988 guarantee a genuinely independent status for the Judiciary. Both judges and prosecutors, as “magistrates” enjoy life-long tenure guaranteed by article 88 par. 1 of the Constitution. Fundamental principles regarding the independence of the Prosecution Office are equally provided in Law 1756/1988 on “The Code on the Organisation of the Courts and the Status of Magistrates”. We underline, that, according to domestic legislation the recommendations issued by the hierarchical superior prosecutors must not be linked to the substance of the relevant criminal case, as, according to art. 24 of Law 1756/1988 par. 4a & 5:

The Prosecution is organised as a unified hierarchical structure under the direction of the Prosecutor General (the Head of the Greek prosecutors) but only “… general orders or recommendations in relation to the exercise of the public prosecutors duties can be legally provided by: a) the General Prosecutor to all prosecutors of Greece; b) the Prosecutor to the Appeals PPO and the Prosecutor to the Court of First Instance PPO to all prosecution officials subjected to the jurisdiction of an autonomous and independent order vis a vis any other power”.

As a result, Public Prosecutors have not only been placed out of the dependence of the Minister of Justice, but they have also obtained the same guarantees as the judges responsible for giving rulings (with whom they share the same career) that protect their professional position from any intrusion of the executive power. Namely, public prosecutors are included in the judicial order and participate of the unified culture of jurisdiction, in the sense that they belong to the same order. Thus, public prosecutors are and must be fully independent.

Public Prosecutors enjoy maximum independence with regard to their status. The recruitment, disciplinary proceedings, transfers and promotions of public prosecutors are decided by the Supreme Council of the Judiciary (Article 105 of the Constitution); they are irremovable from their office (Article 107 of the Constitution) and appointed after a public examination (Article 106, paragraph 1 of the Constitution). The functions performed by public prosecutors are those of the judicial order; they ensure compliance with the laws, prompt and regular administration of justice and protection of the rights of the State, legal persons and incapacitated persons; they promote repression of offences by carrying out the necessary investigations; they prosecute offences when investigations show elements capable of supporting charges in the trial phase; they enforce final judgments and any other decision made by judges as provided for by the law. In criminal proceedings Public Prosecutors perform the function of the public party by representing the State’s general interest and, under Article 112 of the Constitution, have an obligation to initiate public prosecution. For the purposes of conducting a criminal prosecution, the EAW is issued or by an investigating judge or by a court (depending on the stage of the proceedings).

For the execution of a custodial sentence, the EAW is issued by the Prosecutor General.

As mentioned above, EAW are only issued by a public prosecutor (i.e. the Prosecutor General) in the framework of the execution of custodial sentences.

Article 70 of the law of 7 March 1980 on the organisation of the judiciary provides that the function of public prosecution belong to the Prosecutor General, under the authority of the Minister of Justice. Article 19 of the Criminal proceedings code⁵ (CPC) provides that the Minister of Justice can require the Prosecutor general to initiate proceedings, but not to prevent or stop them⁶.

This prerogative of the Minister of Justice does however not apply, given the wording of article 19 and its placement in the CPC - Title I⁷ (authorities in charge of public prosecution and investigation) – to the execution of custodial sentences, regulated by Title IX of the CPC.

It should further be noted that for approximately 30 years no Minister of Justice has made use of his prerogative under article 19 CPC. In order to adapt the constitutional and legislative framework to this constant practice, the 9 Projet de loi n° 7323 du 22 juin 2018 portant organisation du Conseil suprême de la justice.

The Law on Prosecution Office stipulates that a Prosecutor shall be independent in his/her activities from any influence of other public and administrative institutions or officials and shall comply only with law.

The Parliament, the Cabinet of Ministers, public and local government institutions, public and local government officials, enterprises and organizations of all types as well as individuals shall be prohibited from intervening into the work of the Prosecution Office in investigation of cases or during the performance of any other functions of the Prosecution Office.

proceedings before the Court of Magistrates are conducted by the Executive Police, but it is then up to the Attorney General to issue the bill of indictment and actually prosecute before the Criminal Court (trial by jury, or, in some cases, trial before a Judge without a jury) once the compilation of evidence (commitment proceedings) is concluded.

Hence, in Malta, the prosecutor before the Court of Magistrates is the Executive Police, whilst the prosecutor before the Criminal Court is the Attorney General.

None of these (neither the Executive Police nor the Attorney General) are deemed to be "judicial authorities" as per Framework Decision, hence none of them, as prosecutors, can issue an EAW. In Malta, the only authority that can issue an EAW is the Court of Magistrates. The Attorney General is the designated competent authority to administratively send and receive EAWs (and issue the relative certificates), but it is the |  | Chapter 12 Section 2 of the Instrument of Government (the Constitution of Sweden) states that no public authority (government) nor the Swedish parliament (Riksdag) may influence or determine how an authority shall decide an individual case, nor how a rule of law is to be applied.

Thus, a prosecutor is completely independent and free to make his or her own decisions. |
|  | A certificate on the Swedish prosecutor being a judicial authority has been issued and signed by the Temporary Deputy Prosecutor-General, Ms Marie-Louise Ollén.
SE_certificate.pdf |
Nor is a prosecutor's head or the authority itself permitted to issue directives on how a matter is to be handled or what is to be decided.

In Sweden, the role of the prosecutor has been devised so that the prosecutor has a central and independent role throughout the investigation process and legal proceedings in court. The prosecutor's independence is especially important with regard to the leading of criminal investigations and the taking of judicial decisions. It is the prosecutor, not the authority where he or she is employed, who takes decisions regarding whether legal proceedings are to be taken. It is the prosecutor who participates in court proceedings. The role of prosecutor is thereby exerted by an identifiable person with a personal responsibility.

A prosecutor has the right to decide whether a suspect is to be detained. The detaining of a person must be reported to a court within three days in Thus a Swedish Prosecutor is not exposed to the risk of being subject, directly or indirectly, to directions or instructions in a specific case from the executive, such as a Minister for Justice, in connection with the adoption of a decision to issue a European arrest warrant. This means that the European Court of Justice’s judgments of 27 May 2019 in the cases C-508/18, 509/18 and C-82/19 does not affect the Swedish prosecutor’s competence to issue European Arrest Warrant.

Given that prosecutors are not competent for issuing of EAW, the question is not relevant for Slovenia.

From the point of view of Republic of Slovenia as the issuing authority, the recent decision does not affect us, because prosecutors are not the issuing authority for EAW (this competence is reserved for courts).

In our view, issuing authorities of the countries, whose system was found wanting by the CJEU, should do their utmost to make the processing of such EAW by executing authorities as easy and as smooth as possible. Administrative onus/burden regarding the validity of EAWs should not be pushed to executing authorities.
(2) If the investigating judge who receives a warrant does not have territorial jurisdiction, he or she shall immediately forward such warrant to a judge who has jurisdiction, and notify the ordering judicial authority thereof.” In this context the answer to your question is – no.

Provided by Annex 1 of this Act.

Prosecutor offices in Republic of Slovenia are independent.

EAWs are issued primarily in the interest of the authorities of the issuing country and, consequently, they should, as a matter of principle, inform the authorities of the executing country accordingly and supply them promptly with any supplemental documentation and any relevant subsequent decisions of the bodies deemed competent by the standards set by the CJEU.

They should do so without delay, in order to avoid any risks of ex-officio release of persons detained on basis of EAWs issued by non-competent issuing authorities.

According to our legislation only a judge is competent to issue an EAW. In the preliminary proceedings a judge can issue an EAW upon a petition of a prosecutor.

Only a competent court can take the decision to issue an EAW.

According to our national law, the Prosecutor’s Office is independent from the executive. Prosecutors are not exposed to the risk of being subject to directions or instructions from the executive in any case.

The Slovak Republic is not affected by the CJEU’s judgement in question.
| UK | In the UK, a judge issues the EAW upon application from a prosecutor. Prosecutors cannot issue EAWs as we are not considered to be a judicial authority for EAWs | A court ultimately takes the decision to issue an EAW. | The UK has three public prosecution services (the Crown Prosecution Service covering England and Wales, the Crown Office covering Scotland and the Public Prosecution Service for Northern Ireland covering Northern Ireland). All bodies are entirely independent of the executive. As a common law system, much of this independence is uncodified and based on the system of custom and precedence. However, the Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 that set up the Crown Prosecution Service and the Justice (Northern Ireland) Act 2002 which set up the Public Prosecution Service for Northern Ireland guarantee their independence from the executive. As noted in the questionnaire, Crown/Public prosecutors in the UK cannot issue EAWs as they are not regarded as judicial authorities for this purpose. EAWs can only be issued by a court upon the application of a prosecutor. The executive has no powers to issue an EAW. | The UK is not affected as issuing authority as only a court can issue an EAW. | n/a |
